About me

I am Inun Nuria Fitriana, a developer and web designer focused on application development using Laravel and interface design with Figma. With extensive experience in building and managing backend systems, I have expertise in handling various technical challenges and ensuring optimal application performance. Additionally, I am skilled in creating engaging and functional web interfaces using Figma, and I am familiar with technologies like Tailwind CSS for the frontend. I also utilize tools such as VS Code and Laragon to support the development process. My commitment is to continuously learn and grow in the ever-evolving world of technology and design.
